

The Maturity of the MSG; A Coup Averted.

The recent developments in the MSG on differences on Fiji's chairing is a bold and courageous stand by the leaders of the FLNKS, Papua New Guinea, Solomon Islands and more Vanuatu. This reverberates a sense of maturity and wisdom that will be endearing for generations to come. Contrary to what Frank and his rascals say, this had nothing to do with Australia. In fact, it had all to do with Fiji.

Since last August, the MSG Leaders pleaded with Frank to give them some indication on the return to parliament democracy, he forcibly shoved down their throats his grandiose 2014 timeframe. When leaders asked him about the mechanics of his timeframe he barked back that he isn't here to negotiate but to give a brief on his plan and that was it.

We all know what happened after that, our Chiefs headed to Cairns and Fiji's rhetoric was noted. In taking the same approach, Frank then deployed a barrage of public statements that the MSG Meeting will be a showcase where the true Pacific islanders will hear about Fiji. Off he went inviting everyone from Tarawa, Funafuti and even his nemesis, old man Tuiaelipa. He even had the audacity to not even notify MSG Leaders on the invitations he sent out.

But perhaps what is shocking and quite surprising to the seasoned and experienced Fijian foreign policy circles, is the tactical blunder in assuming Melanesia will wholeheartedly agree to this bullshit. As to date, no proposal or position paper has been given to any of the MSG members on what the MSG Plus entails. Truth be told, those in Honiara, Noumea, Moresby and Vila don't know what it is. Is it enhancing the MSGTA?, membership?, security? no one knows. . Fiji had 10 months to tell its MSG brothers and sisters what the MSG Plus may entail.

Oh but that's exactly the point, Suva wants to dish out what's on its mind so that MSG agrees to it. Well Frank I've got news for you, although the streets of Honiara was burning of ethnic violence in 2002, horrid tribal fights rage in the highlands of Papua New Guinea, Effate is battered with corruption and our Kanaki Brothers are fighting for independence, we all play ball when we want support. Respect the MSG and be honest what you want. Except the fact if your kais tell you to piss off if it's not right than that's that.

No Frank, the MSG is not comprised by Australia and contrary to what Stephen Smith said, the MSG Leaders are standing up to principles of good governance and they are standing up free from strings in Australia. You've screwed up and that's the hard fact. So what did you expect, to do a coup on the MSG?
